Following his education, Jerry began working in the oilfields of eastern Montana. Jerry was united in marriage to Sue Nentwig on December 31, 1983 in Glendive and with this union he found his perfect camping and fishing partner with whom he would enjoy the next thirty-three years.

Jerry enjoyed camping and fishing, telling jokes and being with his family and friends around a campfire. He could usually be found tinkering and pitter puttering around his garage, making crafts out of metal or wood that would always make unique gifts for his family and friends. Jerry was a brave and selfless man, his family is extremely proud of how he handled his illness and never let it get the best of him. They will all miss him and are honored to have called him husband, dad, grandpa and friend.
