“ Ron and I had our differents! Yet every Friday night he would call n ask for a date! We went to the local bar festivals....danced and then he would say he had to go. He walked home! Yet gave a tip after the bill to the bartender and if if my friend Miranda was there... either way he would pay for a drive safe home for me. I could ve walked but he wouldn't have it! He was a gentleman! There was one incident where he cried and was angry cause I wasn't ready n couldn't say, "I love you!" But we remained friends! We could always trust and talk! He took me and showed me his family land and where he grew! We went to Sidney at restaurants n places I'd never been. He had the greatest smile and old fashion mannerisms , was quiet and minded his own business! He told me horror stories of working as warden at local prison! □ I could not fathom! RIP friend!

“ Dear Ronald's family,
I knew Ronald's parents and know his brother very well. When I was a young girl and Ronald's parents were alive and Donald and Ronald were young boys, my folks and family visited them at the farm quite often. Dorothy and my mom were good friends. Bernard's dad Peter and my grandpa Gonvald were brothers. For a few years when I was young, we lived only a few miles west of Bernard's farm. So we all attended the same Vang Church and all its beautiful activities. And, of course, we all were together at many, many of the annual Nodland Family Picnics, playing volleyball or softball, visiting, sharing, and eating the memorable noon potluck picnic dinners. Today I stay in close touch with Ronald's brother Donald.
My belief is that Ronald is not gone; rather he lives near each one of you who loved him so, transformed into light, into power, and into love.
With deep sympathy,
Cousin Norma Thorstad Knapp

“ Triston and Dustin i am so sorry for your loss. It is going to be strange going into Albertsons and not putting something in his cart while he's shopping. Then gets home and realized what I did. Or trying to run him over with the motorized cart. He will surely be missed. Ron Nodland God gave you some beautiful wings so soar high with them. Again my deepest condolences and sympathy.
